To the San Antonio community and Valero partners:

This summer has been marked by the devastating floods in the Texas Hill Country, leaving behind widespread damage, displaced families, and communities facing many hardships. Our thoughts continue to be with the victims and their families, as well as those whose livelihoods were impacted.

In the face of this disaster, it's been remarkable to see the San Antonio community and the entire state of Texas step up and rush in to meet the urgent needs of families affected by this tragedy. From emergency responders and aid organizations to local businesses, the response has been incredible.

Valero also responded quickly, supporting organizations on the front lines, including the Salvation Army, San Antonio Food Bank, Texas Search and Rescue, and the American Red Cross. This is a testament to the Texas spirit of coming together in times of need.

Valero employees also volunteered alongside other local organizations to distribute food, water, cleaning supplies, and fuel cards to hundreds of families in Kerrville. Valero employees have given personally, with their donations being matched dollar-for-dollar by the company. These funds will go directly to the Community Foundation of the Texas Hill Country's Kerr County Relief Fund to help our neighbors rebuild their lives. Team Valero will continue to help our community recover from this tragedy.

It's in these moments that the strength of our people comes through—caring, and always ready to show up when it matters most. I appreciate our employees' kindness and generosity. It reflects the heart of our company—people helping people.

Every summer, for more than 25 years, Valero has hosted an internship program at locations across the company, including our headquarters in San Antonio. This program, recently recognized by U.S. News and World Report, has become the main recruiting vehicle for our workforce, providing students an avenue to learn about Valero's culture and gain meaningful hands-on experience.

This summer, more than 250 interns from over 50 colleges and universities have been working at Valero across a variety of business functions, including engineering, accounting, commercial supply and trading, information systems, cybersecurity, legal, communications, and human resources. We appreciate their work, and wish them all the best in their future.

Whether producing essential transportation fuels or being there for our neighbors in times of need, Valero's commitment to our communities never wavers.

We're grateful to support the San Antonio community and proud to call this city home.

Sincerely,

R. Lane Riggs

Valero Chairman, Chief Executive Officer and President
